1. Electronic Communications & Social Media

Newport County Association Football Club's commitment to safeguarding subsists both on the field of play and in the wider context and operation of the Club. Coaches, club officials, volunteers and others in a position of trust in football need to act responsibly both on and off the field. This includes the use of electronic communications and social internet interaction.

Clubs and leagues that set up websites and use web-based applications have a responsibility to ensure safeguards are in place. Clubs are responsible for ensuring all content hosted on their websites, social network areas and any associated message boards or blogs abide by the Rules and Regulations of The English Football League (EFL) and The Football Association (FA).

Electronic communications and social media include, but is not limited to:

- Maintaining a profile page on social or business networking sites (such as LinkedIn, Facebook, Twitter, etc.).
- Content sharing including using sites such as Flickr (photo sharing) and YouTube (video sharing).
- Commenting on blogs or vlogs for personal or business reasons.
- Leaving product or service reviews on retailer sites or customer review sites.
- Taking part in online votes and polls.
- Taking part in conversations on public and private web forums (message boards).
- Editing a Wikipedia page.

The web is not anonymous. Newport County Association Football Club, coaches, directors, office bearers and volunteers should assume that everything they write online, especially in open forums, can be traced back to them. Individuals should be aware that they may be personally liable to prosecution, and open to claims for damages, should your actions be found to be in breach of the law. In cases of harassment, a claim that you had not intended to harass or cause offence will not in itself constitute an acceptable defence.

This policy applies to all players, coaches, directors, office bearers and volunteers of Newport County Association Football Club.

Newport County AFC abide to the following policy measures to ensure safeguarding exists within the realms of electronic communication and social media engagement.

Parent Guidance

1. Know who the Club's Child Protection Officer is and how to contact them if you have any concerns about the content of club web pages or in relation to the welfare of your child. This information can be found on the Club website or can be asked by phoning or emailing the Club.
2. Ensure you are aware of how coaches, managers and other members of the club should communicate with your child.
3. Become familiar with the Club's communication practices. If the club uses text messages or emails as a source of communication, you may request to be copied into anything sent to your child
4. Show an interest in the communications between the Club, you and your child. Open communication about club activities/issues often means that concerns are picked up early and issues can be resolved in a swifter and more efficient manner.
5. Familiarise yourself with both the FA and The Football League's guidance for clubs in relation to websites, text messaging and social networking sites.
6. Ensure your child understands that they should tell someone that they trust about communications that make them feel uncomfortable or when they've been asked not to tell their parent/carer or coach about the communication.

7. Inform the club Child Protection Officer as soon as possible if you or your child receives any inappropriate communication from any member of staff/volunteer or other person associated with the club and save the communication
8. Parents must not use social media to speak ill of the Club or any staff or associates or to comment on players, training or matches.
9. Remember as a parent/carer of a child at the Club, you and your child are responsible for and need to abide by the club policy, The Football League Policy Guidance and The FA Rules and Regulations regarding comments that you place online about the club or club officials, The Football League, players, managers, match officials, opposing teams players or family members of any of those groups.

A breach of this policy will be considered by senior management. All reports of cyberbullying and other technology misuses will be investigated fully and may result in notification to the police where Newport County Association Football Club is obliged to do so. Sanctions may include, but are not limited to verbal warning, written warnings, suspension, or banning/termination from Newport County Association Football Club. Everyone must be aware that in certain circumstances where a crime has been committed, they may be subject to a criminal investigation by the police over which Newport County Association Football Club will have no control.
